

Blessing of the Beasts.

Introduction

Animals have always been the natural satanists of the world. Having no false virtue to cloud their judgment, they live their lives in the here and now, with paws, hooves and talons placed firmly on the earth's soil. Once upon a time, gods were created in the image of animals and worshiped for a beauty, strength, and passion rarely found outside of nature. It was not until Christianity became the law of the land that animals were banned from heaven and demoted to the role of soulless property. Their gods were labelled as demons. While thousands of innocent pets were tried and executed for being in league with a devil who looked suspiciously like a pagan god the church desperately tried to destroy.

Some may say that animal rights have come a long way. Well we say, not far enough. Over two thousand years of mediocrity ends tonight, as we declare this moment year one of the beast. Let's raise our drinks in celebration of our companions, not as the docile babes of the bible, nor the sadistic killing machines from the pages of "Might is right". But, for the amazing, complicated, bat shit crazy characters they truly are. (raise glass) Hail Satan (drink)....Hail beasts.(drink).

(Ring bell 7 times in honor of 7th Satanic statement)

Start of invocation

In the name of Satan our great light bearer, we summon nature's deities to come forth and take back your rightful place as the alphas of earth, air and sea. We respectfully ask you to bless the beasts that are here among us. For they care not from where you come or how you've been branded, heaven or hell, god or devil. As below so above, they are your offspring, and you their finest creation. May you follow in the hoof prints of Black Phillip, to live deliciously among your heirs. Wrap them within your fur, bringing hope and comfort to the ill and neglected. Fight tooth and nail to keep them safe from abuse. While lifting them up on your bright demonic wings to live in a world without pain, where compassion is the new law of the land.

As we call out your name please appear within this space to greet us as your equals, and friends.

Fenris (Nordic wolf god/demon. Does not like leashes)

Bast (Egyptian cat goddess. Very protective, wise, beautiful. Has been known to enjoy the occasional beer)

Melek Taus (The Pardoned Peacock. Some see him as a fallen angel. While others believe he was pardoned...cool bird either way. God of the Yazadi tribe)

Leviathan (Fallen marine mammal angel, bad boy of the sea)

Eostre (Sexually active rodent aka The Easter bunny)

Godzilla (Here to represent reptiles, and protest nuclear war. A by-product of H-bomb testing, was living peacefully in the ocean until the tests irradiated him (or her)).

Our beasts will now take this moment to be anointed individually by the deity in their image.

(Now is the time to bring up your pet, or photo, toy, collar(anything that has a connection). You may request good health, long life, anger management, etc. Anything goes. I will put together a short invocation to the deity tailored to your pet's needs. We will end each individual blessing by offering a holy wafer(aka charlie bears) and repeating Hail (name of deity), Hail (name of pet). If pet is not present Hector will accept wafer in their place.)

(Once all the animals have been blessed we will end the ceremony by ringing the bell once in honor of the 1st Satanic ten, and to signify the beginning of year one.)

(Raise glass)

Hail Satan (drink)

So it is done ;)
